Pat and the Frogs.

The spring had come
With its gentle rain,
And the Frogs, from
Their beds of mud,
Waked up again:
Tuned up their pipes,
Of various tones,
From the shrill piccolos
To the sturdy trombones.

They were chanting in concert,
With strains of great glee,
When Pat came along,
On a pretty big spree.
No money had he
The "crathur" to buy,
And ob! he was feeling
So terribly dry!
So the only chance left
For a drink, that he found,
Was the water that flowed
In the jolly Frog's pond,

He came to the brink,
With a "skip and a leap,"
When a tempting small voice
Cried; "knee deep! knee deep!"

"Thank you kindly," said Pat,
"Ye're right well behavin,'
So I'll take aff me brogues,
An' me feet I'll be lavin',"

So he took off his boots,
And at once threw them down,
When a sepulcheral tone
Said: "You'll dr-r-r rown! You'll dr-r-r*rown!*

"Howly Biddy!" said he.
"It's me narves ye'd be thryin!
Ye re a mutherin' set
Of thaves at yer lyin'!
Me name's Paddy Flinn,
O' the Country o' Claff-yeur!
So kom out, ivery wan,
An I,il take the scalp aff yer!
If there's iver a wan of yees,
Has any spunk!"

But the unswer he got!
Was: "You're dr-r-runk! dr-r-runk! unk!

"Drunk, am I? faith!
An' its my way of thinkin',
If I'd live as yees do,
I'd always be drinkin!
Not wa-ther but whiskey,
I'd live in, be-gun!
Will yees howld yer hush, iver?"

"More r-r-r-rum! More r-r-r-rum!"

Pat picked up a stone,
Which he threw with his might,
And the voices at once
Were silenced outright.

So he put on his brogues,
On his way cogitating,
Their want of politeness,
And manners berating,

Said he: "I'd go bail that
Ther'd be no more bother,
If whiskey they lived in,
Instid of cowld wa-ther!"

LOST AND FOUND.

"Where I lost it I don't know," said poor Mrs. Velvete, sobbing piteously; "but it don't make any difference, at any rate. Somebody has picked it up, and that's an end of it. For all I know, someone picked my pocket. Boston is a dreadfully dishonest place.

It was to a neighbor that Mrs. Velvete spoke. She had just come home from the city, where she had been to draw her quarter's income, and it was her purse containing the money of which she spoke.

"Fifty dollars, my dear," she sighed "and change out of five dollars I bought my return ticket and a lunch with; and it was in the brown velvet bag Jane—that's my niece in Lincoln—sent me last Christmas, and poor Henry's portrait and hair in a locket. I'd taken it off my chain to get the ring mended, for it didn't seem safe. Oh, yes, and my keys on a ring! It's dreadful. I'll never get over it, for I shall have to run in debt for food and fire for three months, and I shall be behind hand ever after. And my poor husband's hair and portrait, too!"

"Why don't you advertise?" asked the neighbor.

"Send more borrowed money after what's gone? I know too much for that," said Mrs. Velvete.

Home she went, sad and dispirited, and having lived on oatmeal porridge for a week, and on tea for two days, began to think of the loan she must ask for sooner or later. Old Joe Barker knew she was honest, and would lend her something, but it would be with heavy interest. After all, that was better than to trouble her few friends, and perhaps break their friendship.

She placed her "papers"—her proofs that so much money was hers—before the old gentleman, who, peering through his spectacles, demurred, doubted, and and finally counted out a certain sum. She lived miserably enough for the rest of the three months, but in spite of that the next quarter's income was spent when it was due; and thus, as she had prophesied, trouble deepened. At last, head over ears in debt, her little house, her one earthly possession, no longer really hers, but to be sold at auction next week, her little capital in the hands of old Joe Barker, poor old Mrs. Velvete knew not which way to turn for succor.

"I'll go and see if they don't want a servant up at the "big hotel," she said to herself. "I could cook and wash dishes. I suppose I shall feel pretty well cut up, of course, but I can't starve."

And Mrs. Velvete, tying her shabby bonnet, under her chin, and wrapping herself in a shawl that had long since seen its best days, took her way up the road to the "big hotel."

"We've got a cook," the proprietor said good-naturedly; "and I suppose you couldn't do our cooking to suit, at any rate; but I shouldn't wonder if we'd like to have you help. I'll let you know on Thursday."

Then he looked at his watch, and Mrs Velvete thanked him, and went away again; but the hotel proprietor did not send for her, after all. The day of the sale was very near; and finally the poor old lady, her eyes swollen with weeping, took her way to Boston, and to a servants' registry office, where she sat all day waiting for an employer. The ladies wanted younger women—more active women. They feared that this pale old woman, with her downcast air, would fall ill on their hands. Some of the girls laughed at her amongst themselves; but one young Irish girl said to herself: "She looks like grandmother, poor body!" and when she went out for her lunch remembered her.

"It's only a few cakes and an apple," she said, with her pretty smile, as she put something wrapped in a newspaper into her hand. "Sure it's weary sitting here and dreading to lave, for fear the very lady you want will come and go in the meanwhile."

"You're a good girl! Thank you," said old Mrs. Velvete.

And tears fell on the cake and fruit as she ate them—tears of gratitude. She was really too poor to buy a lunch.

When she had swallowed every crumb she put on her glasses, and began to read the bit of newspaper. There was something about a murder. There was an advertisement of cheap goods for ladies. There was a column of lost and found notices; and as she skimmed this her eye lighted on the following:

Found, October—, a bag containing money and other articles. The contents of the bag make it particularly interesting to the advertiser, who wishes to see the loser, who will kindly call at No. 40 ——— Street, Boston, Room No. 5.

"Good gracious!" cried Mrs. Velvete, "it's my bag!" She looked at the calender on the wall. "The paper must be two years old," she thought, "but I will go and see the advertiser;" and folding the scrap carefully in her glove, she hurried out of the office.

It was in one of the business streets near the Mansion House that she found No. 40, and was taken in a lift to room No. 5. The door was opened by a boy, who, in reply to her questions, said that he did not know anything about an advertisement, but would inquire, and Mrs. Velvete waited in some trepidation, looking about her at the evidence of a large and prosperous business, at the clerks busy at their desks, at the messenger boys hurrying in and out, at the boxes and pigeon-holes innumerable, and at last was summoned to the inner office, where a benevolent-looking man of fifty-five or sixty arose to greet her.

He bowed; Mrs. Velvete made a little curtsey, and began:

"It's two years and a half ago, and I've just got the paper. Here it is. My bag was brown velvet, and the money was fifty dollars, and poor Mr. Velvete's likeness, in a locket, was in the bag. Oh, sir, if you found it, and have kept it, you'll save a poor old soul from starvation."

"I found it; I have it still," said the gentleman. "Now, madam, whose portrait was in the locket, and what is your name?"

"The portrait was a likeness of my husband, Henry Velvete, when he was young," said the old lady. "I'm Mrs. Velvete; I used to be Miss Orchard. We married down in Hampshire, but bought a small property in Middlesex soon after, and moved there to live on it. Mr. Velvete had losses. He wasn't a good business man, though he was the best of husbands. And the little money he left is all gone now."

"Madam," said the old gentleman, rising, "did you ever hear your husband speak of a brother—a younger brother?"

"Oh, yes," said Mrs. Velvete,—"Richard; he went to Australia and died there. Husband thought a good deal about him. We named the boy we lost after him."

The gentleman looked at her gravely, then turned to a tray on the table and took from it a card.

Mrs. Velvete looked at it through her glasses.

"Richard Velvete," she read aloud. "Why it can't be Henry's brother!"

"It is, indeed, madam," said Richard Velvete. "For years I sought in vain for my brother and at last heard that he was dead. I believed you dead also until I found that bag, but the likeness in the locket was so good, and the initials on the back, "H. V. to S. O.," so conclusive, that I advertised steadily for nearly six months. I had given up all hope of finding you; but now we shall not lose each other again. I have so few relatives that I am covetous of them.

"Wonders will never cease," wrote Mrs. Velvete to an old neighbor, some time after. "Here am I living like a queen, in style I never expected to see, keeping house for brother Richard and his son; and all because of the scrap of old newspaper good little Nora Murphy gave me, with cakes and apple in it. And, by the way, I've sought her out, and she is our little waiter now, and she shall have a good home and kindness, and everything I can give her as long as I live."

SHE HELD THE FORT.

There were brave girls among the early French colonists of Canada. The following striking instance is related of a mere child defending a fort seven days against assaulting savages:—

One October morning in 1692, the inhabitants of Vercheres, a settlement twenty miles below Montreal, were in the field at work. There were but two soldiers within the fort. The commander and his wife were absent. Their daughter, Madeleine, a girl of 14, stood on the landing with a hired man, when she heard firing.

"Run, mademoiselle! run!" cried the man. "Here comes the Iroquois!"

Looking around, the girl saw the Indians near at hand. She ran for the fort, and the Indians, seeing they could not catch her, fired at her. The bullets whistled round her, and "made the time seem very long," as she afterwards said.

As soon as she neared the fort, she cried out, "To arms! to arms!" hoping that she would get assistance. But the two soldiers were so frightened that they had hidden in the block-house.

When Madeleine reached the gate of the fort, she found two women there crying for their husbands, who were in the fields and had just been killed. Madeleine forced them in, and shut the gate. She instantly went to examine the defences of the fort, and found that some of the palisades had fallen down, leaving holes through which the enemy could easily enter.

She got what help she could and set them up. Then the little commander repaired to the block-house, where she found the brave garrison of two, one man hiding in a corner, the other with a lighted match in his hand.

"What are you going to do with that match?" said Madeleine.

"Light the powder, and blow us all up," answered the soiler.

"You are a miserable coward!" said the girl, "Go out of this place!"

People are always likely to obey, in time of panic, the one person who shows resolution and coolness. The soldier did as Madeleine bade him. She then flung aside her bonnet, put on a hat and took a gun.

Her whole "force" consisted of the above mentioned soldiers, her two little brothers, aged 10 and 12, and an old man of 80—and some women and children, who did nothing but set up a continual screaming, as soon as the firing commenced.

"Let us fight to the death," said brave Madeleine to her little brothers, who seemed to have possessed no little share of her own courage. "We are fighting for our country and our religion. Remember our father has taught you that gentlemen are born to shed their blood for the service of God and the king."

Madeleine now placed her brothers and the soldiers at the loop-holes, where they fired at the Indians lurking and dodging about outside. The savages did not know how large the garrison was, and therefore hesitated to attack the fort; and numbers of them fell before the well-directed shots of the soldiers.

The girl-commander succeded, after a while, in stopping the screaming of the women and children, for she was determined that the enemy should perceive no sign of fear or weakness; she flew from bastion to bastion to see that every defender was doing his duty; she caused a cannon to be fired from time to time, partly to intimidate the savages, and partly in hope that the noise might convey intelligence of the situation, and bring them help.

Thus the fight went on, day after day, night after night, the heroic girl keeping up her viligant exertions so constantly that it was 48 hours before she caught a wink of sleep.

For a whole week Madeleine held the fort, with no favoring circumstances but the stormy weather, which prevented the Indians from setting fire to the wooden defences. At the end of that time reinforcements come down the river and "raised the siege."

He Didn't Figure Like That.

A German tailar in a village in Canada failed a few days ago and called a meeting of his creditors. An investigation seemed to show that his liabilities were $4,000, and his assets $1,000.

"It thus appears," said one of his creditors, "That you can pay 25 cents on the dollar."

"Vhell, I doan' figure like dot," replied the tailor.

"How do you figure?"

"Vhy, I pays feefty cents on der dollar."

"How can you do that when your assets only allow one-fourth?"

"Vhell, I prings der odder money down from der house."

He was not permitted to fail.

HIDING WATERS.

The whirling waters of Niagara hide an dark tragedies. A few years Mr. Veddee induced Mr. Pearson to go driving with him. An hour later they drove on to Goat Island and after that no one knows what they did, except so far as Pearson's body indicates it.

They lived next door to each other, Vedder in a handsome stone house and Pearson in a smaller frame house. At supper their absence caused some uneasiness, and as the night wore on their families became alarmed. James Vedder, a brother, and James Howard Pearson, a son, began a search late at night. About midnight they learned that the missing man had driven on to Goat Island and no one had seen them return.

Securing the aid of Policemen Michael Burns and William Rollin they climbed over the gate and went across the bridge to the island. The night was sharp and the wind blew the icy spray back from the falls, clouding the lenses of the dark lanterns carried by the officers. The roads were muddy, the darkness intense and the scene so desolate and uninviting that the searchers shuddered as they thought of what they might find. On the northwest corner of Goat Island there is a sort of promonotary with steps leading down to a long bridge which spans a branch of the falls to Luna Island. There tied to a tree, was found the horse driven by Vedder. The animal was encased in a thin sheet of ice, which had been formed by the breeze spray blown back from the falls. When released, the horse could not move. Policeman Burns led the party on to Luna Island. The ground was covered with snow and ice. The roar of the falls drowned all sound, and the men hesitated when they looked around.

Burns saw two dark objects on the snowy bank at the extreme edge of the abyss.

The first was Pearson's body.

Burns could not recognize it. The face was covered with blood which had been half frozen as it flowed from two ugly pistol wounds. The whiskers were burned by the powder, and the sight was ghastly in the extreme.

Burns shouted back, "Here's one of them; here's Vedder."

Howard Pearson came up, and as the rays were turned again on the frightful visage the boy cried, "No, that's my father," and tried to throw himself on his father's body. He was carried away, and James Vedder was told of the discovery, but not allowed to see the corpse.

The search was resumed, and the other dark object was found to be the clothes of Vedder. Underneath was his vest; on top was his overcoat, his undercoat and scarf and beside them was his hat.

Leading from the neatly piled garments were a man's footprints in the yielding snow, showing that Vedder had walked straight off the bank into the fall itself. There was no return tracks, the pistol was not found and Vedder evidently placed it in his pocket after firing the deadly shots.

Pearson's body lay beneath a stunted cedar tree with the head towards Canada. His arms were extended, the hands were open and the face wore, when washed, a peaceful look. There were no indications of a fight and the murder seemed to have been committed in cold blood without warning to the victim. When the deed was done Vedder, ashamed to face his friends, committed suicide.

Pearson was married to Vedder's sister. His first wife was also Vedder's sister. He leaves a wife and four children. They live on Main street, next door to Vedder's house, which is one of the finest in the place. Pearson was cashier of the New York Central railroad, a position he held for 26 years.

From Tipperary.

Two hot-tempered Celts from Battle row were in Yorkville Police Court yesterday. One had stabbed the other with a night key. The man who did the stabbing said, in extenuation of the case.

'He called me a flamin' sucker.'

'What it he did?' said the Justice.

'Oi'll allow no man to call me that.'

'Why not? What is a sucker?'

'Shure, Oi don't know.'

'How do you know but what it is a complimentary term?'

'It may be, yer honor but Moike niver mint it for a compliment.'

'Don't yon know that natives of the great State of Illinoise are called suckers?'

'Oi did not, but Oi do now. Oi'm shure Moike niver mint to call me a native av that place, for well he knows Oi'm from Tipperary.'

Did it ever occur to you, among the general fluctuations of prices, that umbrellas go "up" oftener than anything else.

How He Did It.

A Cowboy's Method of Stopping the Stampede of a Herd.

A Texas correspondent writes: "One of the slickest things I saw in my travels was a cowboy stopping a cattle stampede. A herd of about 600 or 800 had got frightened at something and broke away pell-mell with their tails in the air and the bulls at the head of the procession. But Mr. Cowboy didn't get excited at all when he saw the herd was going straight for a high bluff, where they would certainly tumble down into the canon and be killed. You know when a herd like that gets to going they can't stop, no matter whether they rush to death or not. Those in the rear crowd those ahead, and away they go. I wouldn't have given $1 per head for that herd, but the cowboy spurred up his mustang, made a little detour, came in right in front of the herd cut across their path at a right angle, and then galloped leisurely on to the edge of that bluff, halted and looked around at that wild mass of beef coming right toward him. He was as cool as a cucumber, though I expected to see him killed, and was so excited I could not speak. Well, sir, when the leaders had got within about a quarter of a mile of him I saw them try to slack up, though they could not do it very quick. But the whole herd seemed to want to stop, and when the cows and steers in the rear got about where the cowboy had cut across their path I was surprised to see them stop and commence to nibble grass. Then the whole herd stopped, wheeled, straggled back, and went to fighting for a chance to eat where the rear guard was. You see, the cowboy had opened a bag of salt he had brought out from the ranch to give the cattle, galloped across the herd's course and emptied the bag. Every critter sniffed that line of salt, and, of course, that broke up the stampede. But I tell you it was a queer sight to see that man out there on the edge of that bluff quietly rolling a cigarette when it seemed as if he'd been lying under 200 tons of beef in about a minute and a half."

HUMOROUS.

A Boy's Pocket.

Buckles, and buttons, and top, and marbles and pieces of string, a screw from a rusty old mop, and scraps of a fayorita sling. Slate pencils, and part of a lock, some matches and kenels of corn, the wheels of a discarded clock, and remains of a mitten all torn. A jack-knife or two, never sharp, some pieces of bright colored glass, the rim of an ancient jews'-harp, pens, fish-hooks and pieces of brass. Old nails, "sweeties," chippings of tin, with bits of a battered-up locket. All these, and much more, are within the depths of a little boy's pocket.

He Couldn't Stand It.

"Why are you home so early?" asked a wife of her husband. "Is the singing school exhibition out already?"

"No; not more than half out," he replied.

"Why didn't you stay to the close? Weren't you interested in the singing?"

"I was until a sixteen-year-old boy attempted to sing 'Larboard Watch Ahoy.' Then I thought I would come home, go to bed and try to forget all about it."

What it Taught.

Mrs. Blikson—"I hope this, Mr. Blikson, will be a warning to you."

Mr. Blikson—"What are you talking about, anyhow?"

Mrs. Blikson—"An item in this paper. It says: 'A man in Springfield, Me., being invited to drink, poured out a glass of whiskey, looked at it a moment, and then dropped dead.' Now, just remember that, Mr. Blikson, the next time you are asked to drink. It teaches a terrible lesson."

Mrs. Flinks—"Certain. All your money is in your name."

He Struck it Rich.

'That's my uncle over there,' said a fast young man to his fast companion; 'we're pretty near broke and I'll strike him for a raise. He won't go back on me. Bet you the drinks I'll strike him for a ten and get it.'

The bet was made and the young man 'struck' his uncle. A long conversation ensued. Finally the young man returned, his face flushed with triumph and some bills in his hand.

'I told you I'd make it,' he said, 'maybe we can make a hit on roulette with this.'

Then his companion looked at the bills, and there were only two $1 notes.

'But you didn't get $10, did you?' he inquired.

'Yes, I did,' replied the nephew, as his tone changed to one of sadness, 'only I had to take the other $8 out in good advice.'

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The following are the prices charged for announcements in this paper: Sheriff, $5.00; Prothonotary, $5.00; Treasurer, $5.00; Register, $4.00; all other offices, $3.00.

COUNTY TREASURER.

We are authorized to announce CHARLES SMITH, of Bellefonte as a candidate for County Treasurer, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

SHERIFF.

We are authorized to announce MILES WALKER of Ferguson Township as a candidate for Sheriff, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

PROTHONOTARY.

We are authorized to announce W. B. MINGLE, of Centre Hall, as a candidate for Prothonotary, subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

THE Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has rendered a decision of general interest in the matter of road tax. The right of farmers to work out their road tax has generally been conceded, but Supervisors in a few townships insist that the tax must be paid in money. A test case has been decided in favor of the taxpayers, and their right to work out their tax distinctly affirmed. In other cases, collectors of road tax have claimed a commission on the part worked out, as well as that paid into the township treasury.

The Supreme Court decided that all claims for such commissions should be rejected, the working out a tax imposing no labor on the Supervisor, who is paid for his services.

THE Grand Encampment of the I. O. O. F. of Pennsylvania is in session at Harrisburg this week. The proceedings are not public, being only of interest to the members of the order.

The officiers present are: R. W. G. P., Joseph E. McCabe, of West Bridgewater and R. W. G. scribe, James B. Nicholson, of Philadelphia.

A California congressman, who was one of a delegation from that state, which had an interview with Samuel J. Tilden, says that for his part he is firmly convinced, judging from all the surroundings, that Tilden will accept the nomination for President if tendered to him by the Chicago convention. He also remarks that Mr. Tilden's ability to stand the fatigue and excitement of the campaign is as good as any other man's of equal age, his mind being as strong and clear as ever before in his life.

THE following six conventions will be held this year for the nomination of President and Vice President: Anti-Monopoly, in Chicago, May 14; the Greenbackers, in Indianapolis, May 28; the Republican, in Chicago, June 3; the American party, in Chicago, June 19; the Democratic, in Chicago, July 8, and the Prohibition in Pittsburg, July 23.

THE indications are that the nominee of the Republican National Convention, a week hence, will be a dark horse. Blaine and Arthur both claim almost the same number of delegates, and they can't both be nominated, but they can both be left out of the race.

WALL STREET affairs are more quiet again up to this writing and the market is gaining strength. Occasionally one of the smaller banks closes its doors, but most of the principal banking houses have resumed business.

THE Bellefonte Watchman says the Republican National Convention prefers to meet at Chicago, because it has one hundred more saloon keepers and bartenders than preachers.

Rough on R—epublicans.

IN Pittsburg the Blaine men are suing Arthur men for fraudulent voting in the primary elections.

ANOTHER tariff bill. Hew-it down, and forever after hold your peace.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 21, 1884.

I don't know how much Mr. Arthur will make out of his business men's game that the office holders in New York are just now playing, but it shows pretty plainly that the President's chances have become so very desperate that he has been compelled to resort to desperate means to raise what little boom he has got. But it is neither a shrewd, sagacious or prudent device to have such names as John Jacob Astor and Horace B. Claflin to lead in any political movement, for they at once put the rank and file upon their suspicions. Mr. Arthur's administration has been purely a negative one, and it is appropriately endorsed by these negative men, for nobody knows how Mr. Astor votes, or how Mr. Claflin votes, if they vote at all. Mr. Arthur has done no harm, simply because there was no harm to be done. The machine would have run as well if Mr. Arthur had been in Kamschatka. The politicians in the "grand old party" have all along credited Arthur without harmonizing the differences that for three years have kept their leaders in hot water all over the country. The recent action of the local conventions for choosing delegates to their Chicago funeral hardly looks that way, and Mr. Arthur's appointments have calculated to keep up the estrangement between the two or three wings in which the party is divided. Talking with a leading Democrat the other day, he seemed to think that the killing of the Morrison bill was, after all, the best thing that could have happened this year to shape things for Democratic success. There was no leading Democrat that had been or would be talked of in connection with a Presidential nomination who had not pronounced views upon the tariff, and it was not for Congress to be making tariff platforms in advance to suit any possible candidate, and the Morrison arrangement wouldn't suit any of them. The dropping of the question altogether, gives us a Democratic President just as sure as if the thing had already happened.

I should like to know if the country is to continue this pampering of the Grant family during the term of their natural lives? Grant has been given three or four fortunes in the last twenty years, and now Congress puts him on the retired pay-roll at about the same salary that he got when President during his first term! If he is foolish enough to invest his own and other people's money in Keeley motors and other South Sea bubbles, I don't see why the country should keep on encouraging him in that sort of out-of-pocket speculation, and this talk of our being unable to compensate him for his brilliant services, smacks a good deal more of sentiment than of justice to ourselves and regard for posterity.

The callow clap-trap politicians of the Republican school who clerk in the departments and affect base-ball, are the ones who have started this hue and cry for Bob Lincoln as a Presidential candidate. While there may be a sad dearth of statesmen in this country just at this time who may be available, it must strike an intelligent citizen with the idea that we have got on our last legs altogether when such a statesman as young Lincoln can be seriously talked about as a candinate. Why, Henry Clay tried three times, and Daniel Webster as many more, after thirty years of as zealous service and able statesmanship as the world has seen, and yet failed to reach a position that this political aspirant proposing to jump into without even having exhibited the first qualities for the place either as a citizen or public official! These are not the times and the country's interests cannot permit the election of Presidents upon mere sentiment, and Mr. Robert Lincoln would do well to bide his time until he can acquit himself of something that will entitle him to consideration, besides his father's name.

The Republican Congressional Committee are in a peck of trouble over the discovery all at once that their connection with the political machinery of their party is in contravention of the Civil Service law, which makes them amenable to all the pains and penalties incident to its infraction. The eleventh section of the law expressly hits them, and Senator Hawley admits that the duties of the committee cannot be performed without the inevitable following of a term in the penitentiary. To see such men as Hawley, Sabin, Logan, Frye, and Don Cameron in company with the House Members of the Committee all going to the penitentiary, would be a sight entitled to our commiseration, however deserving the fellows may be out of that sort of punishment. Seriously however, if the Civil Service law means anything, it means that these men shall not exercise the functions of political machines and Federal officials at the same time, and if they do they ought to be punished the same as any other malefactors.

PHONO.

Waterspout and Hail in Kansas.

LEVENWORTH, Kansas, May 18.—A waterspout washed away the track of the Missouri Pacific roads south and west of here yesterday. On the former road 150 feet were washed away and seven cars loaded with cattle and the engine and tender went into the river. They were completely wrecked and seventy cattle killed. The track was covered with water in some places and in others the water was two to five feet deep. On the Union Pacific hail fell to the depth of two inches. Three-quarters of a mile of track was carried away. Further west all trains have been delayed. There was a heavy fall of rain here but no damage has been reported to crops.

—Deininger & Musser have just received a full car load of marble direct from the quarries, and are now busy as beavers in preparing and putting up some of the finest monuments and headstones that can be seen anywhere. They are prepared to furnish the best in their line, whether an elaborate monument or a plain headstone, and at prices that can not be undersold by any establishment in this part of the state. 2t

—Mr. John Kerstetter, Jr., still makes a business of doing special jobs at carpentry. John is really an expert at the business and has large experince, both in making out plans, specifications and drawings, as well as a practical workman. People who entrust their work into his hands can safely rely on having it done in best style at the lowest prices. tf

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, MAY 22TH, 1884.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

—Ascension Day.

—Thanks for the "corn cobs" Lizzie.

—Hear the musical treat next Saturday.

—The trees throughout town present a lovely sight.

—A feast for lovers of music—the coming concert.

—Do not forget the concert next Saturday evening.

—A Miss Eisenhower is visiting at Mr. Jacob Gephart's.

—Candidates are not plentiful at this end of Penns Valley.

—Potatoes sell from 30 to 40 cents a bushel in this county.

—J. W. Snook is at Philadelphia buying his spring goods.

—Mrs. Michael Lamey, after a spell of sickness, is better again.

—Mrs. Etta Tomlinson is off visiting her parents at Hartleton.

—A number of children in town had been afflicted with the mumps.

—Landlord Frain drives a new and elegant buss to and from the depot.

—The season for traveling sharpers has come. Keep a look out for them.

—Miss Hosterman of CentreHill, is a guest of Mrs. B. O. Deininger this week.

—Girls, was that a Fedora hat, that Prof. K. wore on Sunday? Isn't it a daisy!

—Rev. Sarvis treated his hearers to a fine sermon last Sunday in the M. E. church.

—We are glad to report Harvey Hauck's partial recovery from his late sickness.

—Some splendid gold watches just received by Jeweler Musser. Go and see them.

—W. T. Auman has returned from his trip to Philadelphia and other places in the East.

—Dinges, Vonada & Co., at Coburn, are opening new bargains this week. Go and see.

—Mr. Kaufman, Sr., is off to the eastern cities purchasing a large stock of spring goods.

—Mr. A. Bartholomew, of Salona, is the guest of his nephew, E. Bartholomew, this week.

—Mr. Miles Walker's announcement as a candidate for sheriff appears in this week's JOURNAL.

—Our street commissioner, Mr. Abs. Harter, is busy engaging tax payers to work on the roads.

—Miss Lily Shadle from Logansville spent a few days with Miss Minnie Hartman last week.

—On Monday this region was visited by heavy thunder showers, which wakened up vegetation.

—Baus' Orchestral Grand Piano, bran-new, will be used at the concert next Saturday evening.

—Mr. E. H. Long, of the firm of D. S. Kaufman & Co., of this place, paid us a pleasant call on Monday.

—Read the programme for the entertainment to be held in the M. E. church next Saturday evening.

—The Hazleton Plain Speaker says the forests fires destroyed thousands of trout in the mountain streams.

—A new sign has been put up in front of D. S. Kaufman & Co's, store, on Main Street. J. W. Lose's job.

FOR SALE.—About one thousand feet of Dry Linn Boards. Inquire at this office. W. tf.

—The population of Millheim is steadily on the increase. Every now and then new comers can be heard from.

—The Womelsdorf News, one of our exchanges, has been enlarged to a five column paper and looks greatly improved.

—Hoop nets are used rather freely in this section of the country. It is dangerous to violate the fish law. Stick a pin there!

—Our neighbor, Mr. Jonathan Harter, crowned his residence on Penn Street, with two new and good-sized chimneys.

—Mr. Byron Houtz from Coburn, "counter hopper" at Grenninger's, showed his smiling face on our streets on Sunday.

—J. Spigelmyer has mechanics at work, erecting a portico in front of his house, occupied by Dr. A. W. Hafer, on Penn street.

—Secure your reserved seats for next Saturday's concert at once, if would prefer sitting to standing. For sale at Musser's Jewelry Store.

—Willis Musser, of Woodward, wishes to inform the lovers of canines that he has two fine grey hound pups for sale at a reasonable price.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stover, Mrs. Charles Stover and Mrs. Cyrus Bright, all of Aaronsburg, were visitors at the JOURNAL office last week.

—Mrs. Rachel Kreamer of Aaronsburg, departed this life on Sunday. Her remains were interred in the Reformed Cemetery yesterday.

—Ground has been broken for the foundation walls of the new Evangelical church on Penn street, and work seems to be progressing finely.

—Our correspondents should send their communications in time to reach us not later than Tuesday afternoon, if they would have them inserted.

—R. H. R. Harter, a native of Millheim and a brother of Dr. J. F. Harter, has moved from Joliet to Chicago, where he is engaged in house painting.

—Last Thursday was a day of excitement for Millheim. Merchants, traveling men and lawyers by the dozen, attending the sale of Tomlinson's store.

FOR SALE.—Two new Keystone Cultivators at a reasonable price. Apply to JACOB SANKEY, Millheim, Pa.

—Rev. Zimmerman, of Rebersburg, filled Rev. Tomlinson's pulpit last Sunday, the latter being absent. An excellent discourse was enjoyed by a fair audience.

—Mr. L. J. Noll built a new bridge across the race, adjoining his farm, south of town. He don't believe in having things neglected around his premises.

—A large lot of circulars have been struck at this office for Dinges, Vonada & Co., Coburn's enterprising merchants. They appreciate the value of printers' ink.

—Remember, the money you spend for a pleasant evening next Saturday, will at the same time help to swell the funds of our Sunday schools. Don't hesitate to go.

—Our town council makes inspection tours through the borough frequently. They seem to be aware of the duties resting on their shoulders and willing to fulfill them too.

—Charles Smith, Esq., of Bellefonte, announces himself in this issue of the JOURNAL as a candidate for county treasurer subject to the decision of the democratic county convention.

—The final rehearsal for the entertainment of the Musical Association will be to-morrow evening, in the M. E. church with closed doors. A full turn out of the class is expected.

—Lewisburg Saturday News:

Mr. George Buck, the Millheim photographer, was in town this week visiting his parents and looking around. When is it to come off George?

—Many of our people felt disappointed last Saturday about the non-appearance of the band. Brace up, boys. The citizens have been helping you again and you owe them a serenade.

—A new boardwalk was built along Mrs. A. Alexander's property on Main street last week. C. Alexander and H. Miller were the mechanics and a remarkable good job they made of it.

—P. S. Meyer, of the Pine Creek Mills, may have his equals in manufacturing good flour, but he can not be beat by any of them. We know what we speak of and advise our readers to try him.

—We learn that two gutters will be built on Main street in the centre of the town, one from Musser's hotel and one from the pump to Alexander's corner. A decided and long-needed improvement.

—Lewisburg presented a booming sight last Thursday. They are railroading, building, manufacturing and doing a brisk business in general down there, which makes it a town of much stir and get-up.

—Michael Lamey changed his former gunsmithshop to a summerhouse, having moved it back of his dwelling house on Penn Street for that purpose. Other changes and improvements around the premises are to follow.

—The trimmings which were put on the two entrances of the Luth. church by Mr. R. D. Beirly, the boss carpenter, ace a splendid piece of workmanship, and put the finishing touch to the general appearance of that fine structure.

—Mr. G. W. Harter, the gentlemanly proprietor of the Main street grocery treated us to a fine lot of full-grown lettuce last Saturday. He frequently remembers the poor printer and is therefor sure to prosper. Many thanks, Wash.

—Mr. Samuel Otto, who for eighteen months had been staying with his daughter, Mrs. G. W. Holloway at Burbank, Ohio., has returned to this, his native place. He dropped in to see us and the tenor of his conversation tells the old but true story that "there is no place like home."

—The jewelry store of our clever friend, C. A. Sturgis, of Lewisburg, is a fine establishment, filled with a complete stock of Clocks, Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, &c. He does a paying business and gives general satsifaction to his many patrons. Sorry we did not find him at home.

—Mrs. P. H. Musser, having come in contact with plants, commonly called "wild poison," while cleaning up around the premises recently, was confined to the house a few days last week on account of the sore inflicted by said poison. She is improving as rapidly as can be expected, and is able to be out again.

—The rope jumping season has opened, and the first disastrous result comes from Ashland, this State, where a little girl has lost the use of her legs from excessive jumping. Parents should be careful in regard to allowing the children to use the rope to excess.

—Read the new advertisement of D. S. Kaufman & Co. in another column. They will receive a large stock of new goods by the time this paper reaches its readers, and everybody ought to stop in at their place and examine their new supply. They propose to do a cash business and thereby be enabled to sell their goods at rock bottom prices.

—H. H. Tomlinson's store was sold to Mr. D. S. Kaufman, of Fisher's Ferry, about two miles east of Selinsgrove Junction, on last Thursday.

The business will be carried on by his son, Mr. Daniel Kaufman and his son-in-law, Mr. Isaac Long, under the firm name of D. S. Kaufman & Co. Mr. Kaufman, Sr. is a gentleman of considerable means, while his sons are experienced and obliging business men which put together gives the enterprise a substantial and secure basis, as well as fair prospects of continued success.

A CALL TO PRAYER.

Issued by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union in View of the pending Presidential Conventions and Campaign.

Headquarters N. W. C. T. U., 16 East 14th St., N. Y.

To all Christian People:

"Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." Our nation is to-day a legal partner in the business of selling intoxicating liquors as a drink. This fact defines the greatest, most immediate, most vital issue in National politics. Government of the people cannot successfully co-exist side by side with a traffic protected by law, whose result is to render the individual incapable of self-government. The homes of America are imperilled by the saloons whose patronage is recruited from the fireside and the cradle. We therefore, mothers and sisters, wives and daughters, beseech all who believe in God, to join with us in solemn, earnest and importunate prayer that the hearts of the people may be so turned unto Him upon whose shoulder the government shall be, that by some party such principles may be declared, and such candidates chosen, that Christian men can conscientiously cast their ballots for the same, being assured that they have thus struck a blow for the National Prohibition of the traffic in strong drink.

We name Tuesday, May 27th, as this Day of Prayer and urge all our local Unions to observe this date, enlisting all pastors and churches to co-operate, so far as possible, with us, and respectfully requesting pastors to preach on the subject of God in Government, on the Sunday preceding or following this day of prayer.

We suggest the following PROGRAMME:

TUESDAY, MAY 27th, 10 to 11 A. M. Subject: For the Leaders of the W. C. T. U.: That they may be wise as serpents and harmless as doves in this great controversy; that they may have the courage of their convictions and be true to the National motto, "For God and Home and Native Land;" that a divine charity may pervade all their utterances, that they may meet argument with argument, misjudgment with patience, and all their difficulties and dangers with prayer.

11 to 12 A. M. For Christian Pastors and Editors: That their trumpets may give no uncertain sound; that they may so speak and write as those who shall give account to God; that as leaders in our Christian civilization they may demand the outlawing of the liquor traffic.

1 to 2 P. M. For the Platforms of Parties: That they may not seek to revive sectional issues, or glitter with old-time generalities, or conceal thought under subtleties of expression, but that they mry pointedly declare that THE SALOON MUST GO.

2 to 3 P. M. For the Presidential Candidates: That they may be men of such personal habits as the mothers of this nation might safely hold up as models for their sons; men committed by character and public pledge to National Prohibition; men who fear God and work righteousness.

3 to 4 P. M. For the Christian Voters of the Republic, with whom rests the balance of power: That their spiritual insight may be greatly quickened; that their consciences may be alarmed; that the cry from broken hearts, defenceless homes and ruined souls may stir their whole being to its noblest possibilities; that they may see that there is no postponement of duty which does not involve irremediable loss; that they may be convinced that THE RIGHT IS ALWAYS EXPEDIENT, and resolve to walk worthy of their high calling, and to make no compromise with wrong; that they may be inspired to see their duty to their Home Constituency, and to represent the women whom they love and honor by outlawing the Saloon and protecting the Home.

Let the leaders be—one for each hour—duly chosen and announced. Bible texts, illustrating and enforcing the five general topics here given, may be readily collated.

Yours for a Republic whose rulers shall be men of God.

FRANCES E. WILLARD, Illinois,
CAROLINE B. BUELL, Conn.,
MARY A. WOODBRIDGE, Ohio,
ESTHER PUGH, Ohio,
L. M. N. STEVENS, Maine,
General Officers National W. C. T. U.

—Mr. W. H. Mingle, of Centre Hall, is a candidate for Prothonotary. His announcement will be found in another column.

—New Berlin's correspondent to the Mifflinburg Telegraph has the following: Superintendent Shortess says that he furnishes bread, beef, &c., for only 51 boarders. He says Union Sem- isn't roomy enough to accommodate all who apply for rooms, hence many students must seek homes or places in the town boarding-houses until the addition is built to the Seminary.

—During our short stay at Lewisburg last week we visited Harris' Millinery Store and were astonished at their immense stock of goods as well as at the rushing business they do at their store. From 25 to 30 hats and bonnets were sold in an hour's time, not to mention all the other innumerable things of fashion, which were taken away by eager customers. Mr. Harris informed us that their sale of hats the other Saturday amounted to the fair figure of 106. But then Mr. and Mrs. Harris just know how to make their patrons feel at home and the ladies would rather linger an hour to be waited on, than go anywhere else for their goods.

—Patronize all home industries and enterprises. If you buy of your neighbor they will buy of you, and all will prosper. If the men who deal in boots and shoes or hardware send away for dry goods and groceries for their families because they can save a little thereby, they break down the busines of their neighbors who deal in their articles. They get even, they send for what they don't keep and you do, and destroy your trade. So, too, with professional men and mechanics. In order to prosper they must help each other. Every member of the community must do this or those who find business unremunerate will leave and go elsewhere. Every man who works produces something, and his neighbors should patronize his industry to retain him among them. If he and his family go to another place, every kind of busines loses his custom and its profits. Contribute to all public enterprises that look to the general good. If a new public building or new manufactory is to be built, contribute by subscribing, or at least say a good word for them. If you have a business, advertise it, and people will know what it is, and will patronize you. You cannot hide your light under a bushel and then expect people to see it; if you attempt it you will be the loser, and ought to suffer.

Madisonburg Items.

The mosquitoes have presented their bills.

Benjamin Roush sold his horse to a New York drover.

Ira E. Shafer left our burg last week, expecting to locate at Lewistown.

The street bummer got his potatoes planted at last.

Ida Ocker and Alice Wise started for Lock Haven on Tuesday. They will work for a Mrs. Shoemaker at that place. Alice's departure lets Clarence out in the shade.

Miss Lizzie Shull of Texas is staying at Albert Klinefelter's.

The members of the Ev. congregation have repaired the fence in front, of their church.

Miss Annie Bierly came home on Saturday to see her parents. Left again on Sunday afternoon.

The tobacco agent F. O. H. came to town last Friday afternoon and took away with him one of our young ladies.

T. Wolf came home on Saturday.

Mr. Sagner of Nittany Valley near Washington furnace had the misfortune of severely injuring his hand in the planing mill. Amputation was necessary.

Noah and his ark came to town on Saturday and stayed till Tuesday morning.

Andrew Ocker has contracted to build Dr. Smith's house in Nittany Valley. SHIN BONE.

PROGRAMME FOR THE CONCERT.—The Millheim Musical Association, under the direction of Prof. H. J. Kurzenknabe, will give its first entertainment next Saturday evening in the M. E. church of this place. The chorus numbers about sixty voices, male and female, and the following excellent and attractive programme has been arranged for the occasion:

1. March of the Men of Harloch, chorus; 2. Sleep my Child, solo with violin accompaniment, Mrs. Hengst; 3. Luna, quartette, Mrs. R. A. Bumiller, Mrs. P. H. Musser, A. R. Alexander, and J. H. B. Hartman; 4. Wait and Murmur Not, chorus; 5. Moonlight on the Rhine, duet, Dr. J. F. Harter and Mrs. J. W. Stover; 6. Jack and Jill, quartette, Mrs. J. F. Harter, Mrs. Dem. Tomlinson, R. A. Bumiller and H. J. Kurzenknabe; 7. Hark! Apollo strikes the lyre, chorus; 8. Legend of the Cross Bill, solo, Mrs. F. Colyer; 9. Soldiers' chorus, male quartette, Reed Alexander, Dr. J. F. Harter, R. A. Bumiller and H. J. Kurzenknabe; 10. Star Spangled Banner, chorus; 11. Beautiful Moonlight, duet, Miss Maggie Alexander and Mrs. P. H. Musser; 12. Trust her not, quartette Miss Emma Eisenhuth, Mrs. A. A. Frank, Reed Alexander and H. J. Kurzenknabe; 13. Hail! Smiling Morn, chorus; 14. Come Ye Disconsolate, solo and chorus, Miss Cora Kreamer and Society; 15. Love's Sunshine, solo, Miss Jennie Deininger; 16. Holy Mother Guide his footsteps, duet, Mrs. J. F. Harter and R. A. Bumiller; 17. Spring is Coming, chorus; 18. Sing Birdie Sing, solo, Miss Minnie Hartman; 19. Moonlight on the Lake, quartette, Mrs. A. J. Harter, Mrs. A. A. Frank, Reed Alexander and C. W. Albright; 20. Hark! I hear the Angels Calling, chorus; 21. Forsaken, male quartette, Dr. J. F. Hartrr, R. A. Bumiller, F. C. Colyar and C. W. Albright; 25. Fairest Daughter of the Year; chorus.

Several fine instrumental pieces will be rendered by J. E. Kurzenknabe and G. J. Kurzenknabe, of Harrisburg.

COBURN BRIEFS.

The next to build a new fence is our friend John Stonebreaker.

The heavy rains on Monday made fresh fish plenty on Tuesday.

Our neighbor Bob Vonada across the bridge has bought a horse and went to huckstering.

Our town was very lively on Saturday the stores being the attraction.

Andy Vonada is quite busy sawing and planing for the new houses to be built.

Rev. Fox preached to a large congregation on Sunday evening.

The fellow whom the breakman prohibited from getting on the train last week because he was unable to stand said, "I wonder what is wrong with me" and then fell across the track for an all day nap. Of course he knew he had been promoted after sobering up. Strong drink can not help but promote all who drink it.

We can boast of a good hotel at Coburn and ask you to put up there to convince yourself.

Dinges, Vonada & Co., have a very fine delivery wagon.

John Seriff's house is under roof.

A strange Use for the Telephone.

A police inspector at Odessa, says an English journal, whose name, Dobrijiusky, deserves in spite of its dissonance to be mentioned on account of his cleverness, has discovered a new use for the telephone. One day recently a policeman brought to the station a Jew, having in his possession a quantity of silver believed to be stolen. The silver was in a semi-molten condition, and had none of its original features remaining to assist in its indentification. Hence, as the Jew stoutly declared the metal to be his own property, the police inspector was put in a fix, from which all his cross examination of the presumed thief failed to extricate him. At last a bright idea struck him. He went to the telephone in the adjoining room, and, mentioning to the officials at the police master's office what had happened, instructed them to utter in solemn tones, on a signal being given, the words, 'Itsno Smeliansky, it will be better for thee to confess that thou hast robbed somebody, otherwise thy punishment will inevitably be more severe.' Afterwards summoning the Jew into the room, he pointed to the instrument on the wall, and told him that it really did not matter whether he divulged his crime or not, as the 'machine' would do it for him. At this the Jew laughed out-right, while the inspector placed a sheet of paper on the table and prepared to take down the confession. When everything was ready, he told the Jew to put the tube to his ear, and decide whether he would confess himself or allow the 'machine' to do it for him. Then, giving the signal, he returned to the table, when a second or two later he had the satisfaction of seeing the Jew's face turn deadly pale at hearing the solemn advice mysteriously conveyed to him by the 'machine' and of noting down directly afterwards a penitent confession from the thief's own lips.

Novel Use of Greenbacks.

"What becomes of all the greenbacks and bank-notes after they have served their few years of usefulness?" is a frequent inquiry. A bank-note has its life just the same as all other things useful. What an interesting story the travels of a greenback from the moment it leaves the press until it returns to the macerating machine would make! The average life of a bank-note is about three years, perhaps a little longer. After serving its purpose as currency it is metamorphosed into rabbits, birds and other figures. The process of the destruction of the notes is an interesting one. The readers will often see in the daily papers a paragraph something like this: "National bank-notes received for redemption to-day, five hundred thousand dollars." The next day these notes are carried to the bureau of Engraving and Printing and placed in a machine containing large knives, which chop the notes into fragments. The operation is conducted under the supervision of three officers of the Treasury Department, especially detailed for this business. No one is allowed to be present at this daily maceration of the notes except the officials and the men who run the machine. They are compelled to remain in the room until each separate note is destroyed. They must account in detail afterward to the Redemption Bureau for each note; and should one become lost or mislaid, and afterward find its way into circulation, the result would be the immediate discharge of the three men who daily have in their custody from $500,000 to $2,000 000, or $3,000,000 worth of notes and bonds. The shreds are reduced to pulp, and then by a patented process this mass is molded into figures of birds and animals and sold as mementoes to visitors. Oftentimes it will happen that one little object will be composed of what was once $100,000-000 worth of money.

"Young man" writes to learn what multum in parvo means. "Young man," did you ever call on your best girl and have her cruel father meet you at the door and with one crushing glance say "Go!" Well, that is multum in parvo, and it is about all you want!

ELIXIR
For the cure of
Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs, then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.
CONSUMPTION
It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. DELAWARE RIVER CHEMICAL WORKS,
BAUGH & SONS,
Philadelphia, Feb. 1, 1884.
To Farmers of Pennsylvania:
Gentlemen:—For over twenty-eight years we have manufactured Raw-Bone Phosphates, and our brands have become household words in nearly every section of the country. In many communities the demand for them has increased, while in others the sales have declined, on account of the preference for lower-priced goods. Six years ago, finding that the demand for goods of lower cost had become almost universal, and having pecular advantages of raw materials and manufacturing facilities, we determined to meet this demand, and introduced a TWENTY-FIVE DOLLAR PHOSPHATE, made by a NEW PROCESS EXCLUSIVELY OUR OWN. The quickness with which this Phosphate sprang into use among intelligent farmers will be shown by the following statement:

Of the $25 Phosphate there were sold

During 1879,	1,287	Tons.
" 1880,	3,957	"
" 1881,	5,147	"
" 1882,	8,288	"
" 1883,	10,128	"

The reports of the action of the $25 Phosphate have been satisfactory in every case from a wide inquiry. We want to be informed upon this point very plainly, as it is our interest to know if the article continues to produce good results. We will thank any farmer, having used the $25 Phosphate with disappointing results, to let us hear from him with full facts.
Yours truly,
BAUGH & SONS.
